digraphs Card Game

How to play?

An addictive game to practice decoding short vowel words with digraphs. There are 80 jellybean cards in all. All the words are either 4-letter or 5-letter long.

The aim of this card game is to collect the maximum number of cards.

Keep the cards in a pile. The first player draws a card and reads it. If the player reads it correctly, he/she can keep the card. If he/she is unable to read it correctly, the card is put at the bottom of the pile to be read again.

Play continues until there are no cards left in the pile.

Jellybean jar card: It's a bonus card which the child can add to their card total. Also, they get to draw another card and read the word. The player must be able to read the card in order to keep it.

Ants on the jellybean card: Oops! The ants ate your word. Keep the card aside. You do not get to read a word in this turn. The card does not get added in your card total.

The player with the most cards wins the game.

You can use as many or as little cards as you wish to depending on the number of players and the time limit.
